

Vacant position as

LEGAL & POLICY EXPERT (M/F/D)

Your Opportunity

We are looking for a Legal & Policy Expert (m/f/d) to work at the forefront of policy and regulatory development for renewable energy and rural electrification in emerging economies. Your role will be to provide expertise in the development and refinement of policy and regulatory frameworks, assist our clients in developing contracts and legal structures for the execution of transactions, and provide company-internal legal and business development support.

We expect the Legal & Policy Expert to leverage his/her experience to draft precise and convincing regulatory documents and communicate persuasively with corporate executives and high-level public sector officials. We expect the Legal & Policy Expert to be highly motivated to drive the implementation of renewable energy and rural electrification projects by delivering high quality outputs and incorporating INENSUS' innovative concepts into legal advisory.

We welcome applications from both those with experience in the off-grid sector and those looking for a career change. Depending on the applicant's preference, this position may be based out of Berlin (Germany), Nairobi (Kenya), or remotely, with preference given to applicants working in Europe or Africa.

Your Skills

- Relevant Master's degree in law, policy, international development or similar
- At least 5 years of experience in the legal field, preferably with some experience in renewable energy and/or rural electrification and emerging economies
- Ability to synthesise research findings, develop robust analyses with actionable policy and strategic recommendations for clients
- Ability to draft legal documents, contracts, regulatory frameworks and guidelines
- Ability/readiness to travel
- Strong verbal and written communication skills in English
- Knowledge of French is a plus, but not required
- Ability to work collaboratively with others

If this opportunity sounds like it is made for you, please get in touch with:
